

Personalized communication

For a better employee experience

Your employees are exceptional, consistently bringing their best selves to work. You aspire to help make their lives just a little easier, friendlier and more convenient, with everything they need to live their life and be proud of the work they do.

Connect your employees to the information they need at home, at work and on the go, to make life (and work) happen. Because when your employees' lives are easier and their experiences richer, they're more productive and engaged.

A simplified employee experience

Your employees want their work experiences to keep pace with their everyday lives. That means simple, easy and convenient – accessible any time across a range of devices. It also means engaging content that is personalized to fit their individual needs.

70% of employees want to be treated like customers in the workplace, and believe their employer should understand their needs just as well as their customers.
