

Introducing A Class

Supporting your business aviation operation

Our vision and proposition

Willis Towers Watson Global Aerospace works in partnership with your industry to understand the risks faced by business aviation operators. It is this experience that has led us to create A Class, a platform dedicated to a select group of business aviation operators. A Class delivers data, knowledge and solutions; to help you to mitigate your organisation's risks.

“Combining data analytics with a greater understanding of the industry risk landscape and insurance market trends, is key to effective risk management and the growth of your operation.”

John Taylor
 Managing Director, General Aviation, Willis Towers Watson
