

Jewellery

Willis Towers Watson

Willis Towers Watson provide advice, risk mitigation and coverage solutions to all clients in the diamond and jewellery industry. Our clients range from sole traders and individuals to global brands and we customise our products and services to our clients specific requirements.

Our expertise embraces every element of the supply chain – from the moment a diamond leaves the ground to the time it's worn by the end recipient and every stage in between.

What do we handle?

We work closely with specialist insurers to achieve a robust insurance programme which matches the risk profile of each individual client. Integral to our offering is the indepth technical, operational and analytical expertise crucial for achieving the widest and most cost effective insurance cover in the market.

We provide risk and insurance health checks on policies to ensure that the client has the best coverage and terms for the risks associated with their business.

We ensure overseas programmes are compliant with local insurance and tax regulation, with out extensive Willis Towers Watson network available to support and service local operations where you may be.

